Committee expectations and authority

Committees are expected to meet at least once per year, and more often as deemed appropriate by committee members to accomplish the committee's purpose.

A committee chair should be chosen by the committee members. The responsibilities of the chair include:

- Identify and communicate with committee members
- Convene committee meetings
- Communicate with the board of directors as appropriate
- Manage spending within budgets approved by the board of directors. Coordinate financial activities with the Association Treasurer.
- Execute contracts on behalf of the association necessary for the activities of the committee. The chair may authorize another committee member to execute contracts in his/her absence.
- Provide a report to the membership at the annual meeting

The board of directors reserves the right to remove a committee chair if, in the judgment of the board, these responsibilities are not being met. In that case, the committee will be charged with selecting a new chair.

Budget authority for each committee is established by the board of directors based on past expenditures. Committees may request additional budget authority from the board of directors.

Separate checking accounts may be maintained for a committee at the discretion of the board. If a separate account is established for a committee, the committee chair or his/her designee is responsible for maintenance of the account, but the Treasurer oversees all accounts. The committee chair or designee reports periodically to the treasurer and annually to the membership at the annual meeting.
